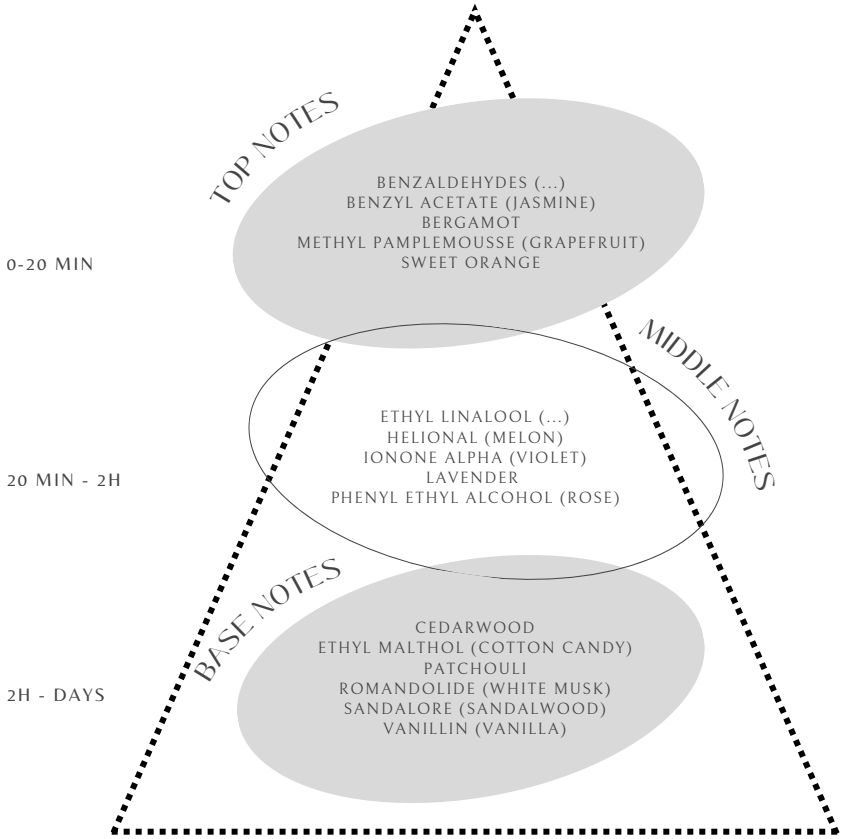
NOSE!

As Coco Chanel famously said, “No elegance is possible without perfume. It is the unseen, unforgettable, ultimate accessory.” A perfume is the final and most beautiful accessory to one’s attire, the invisible detail that completes a look, leaves an impression, and quietly reveals something of one’s personality.

Beyond the predictable landscape of fresh, floral designer fragrances, creating your own signature scent offers something far more personal: a perfume composed around you, and only you.

Félicitation! You are about to embark on a journey to become a perfumer, or as we say in French, a ”Nose”.



CLASSIC COMPOSITIONS EXAMPLE

Citrus (Bergamot &/or Orange &/or Methyl Pamplemousse)
Floral (PEA &/or Ionone Alpha &/or Ethyl Linalool)
Gourmand Musk (Romandolide &/or Vanillin)

Citrus (Bergamot &/or Orange &/or Methyl Pamplemousse)
Aromatic+Floral (Lavender & PEA &/or Ethyl Linalool)
Wood (Sandalore &/or Cedarwood &/or Patchouli if you feel overlwhelmed by the assignment or the number of choices offered to you, an alternative option will be to choose to create a simpler accord, please ask :)

OLFACTIVE PYRAMID

A perfume is composed to evolve over time, revealing its character in successive layers.

Top notes create the first impression. Light and fleeting, they rise immediately upon application and usually fade within the first 20 minutes.

Middle notes, also called heart notes, form the soul of the blend. They appear as the top notes soften and give the perfume its main identity. They last approximately 2hours.

Base notes provide depth, richness, and lasting presence. They emerge gradually, anchoring the composition and lingering long after the first notes have disappeared. Some base notes can lasts for days.

COMMON DESCRIPTORS

- Amber: Originally a classic composition of Vanillin + Labdanum + Benzoin. Today, "amber" is commonly used to describe warm, sweet, and resinous notes or blends. Despite the name, it has no relation to the amber stone.
- Aromatic: Fresh and camphoraceous, associated with herbs such as sage, thyme or rosemary.
- Aquatic: Fresh and watery, reminiscent of the sea or freshwater lakes.
- Citrusy: Bright and zesty, reminiscent of citrus fruits like lemon, orange, and grapefruit.
- Creamy: Smooth and rich, resembling the texture and smell of cream.
- Earthy: Reminiscent of soil, woods, and nature, often with a damp or musty quality.
- Floral: Resembling the scent of flowers, such as roses, jasmine, or lilies.

- Fruity: Reminiscent of fresh or ripe fruits, excluding citrus, such as berries, apples, or peaches.
- Gourmand: Means "Yummy" in French. Rich and edible-smelling, often with notes of cakes, desserts and sweets.
- Green: Fresh and leafy, reminiscent of grass, leaves, and foliage.
- Leathery: Rich and deep, reminiscent of leather or suede and often adding a rugged quality.
- Metallic: Sharp and cool, reminiscent of metal or minerals.
- Musky: Animalistic for grey musks, sappy and heady for Egyptian musks, and clean and fluffy for white musks, often used to add depth, longevity and warmth.
- Ozonic: Fresh, airy and clean, reminiscent of the air after a thunderstorm.
- Powdery: Soft and dry, reminiscent of the texture of talcum powder.
- Resinous: Thick and sticky, reminiscent of tree sap or resins.
- Sharp: Distinct, incisive, and crisp, reminiscent of the precision of a knife's edge, frequently linked to a cool, metallic sensation.
- Smoky: Reminiscent of smoke, ash or burnt wood, adding depth and warmth.
- Soft: Gentle and mild, not overpowering, often with a subtle presence.
- Spicy: Warm and piquant, often with notes of spices like cinnamon, clove, saffron and peppercorn.
- Sweet: Sugary and pleasant, often with notes of vanilla, caramel, candies, or treats.
- Warm: Invoking a sense of warmth and comfort, often with spices or woody notes.
- Woody: Evocative of woods and forest, often with notes of cedar, sandalwood, or pine.
